3. [] Miss Dorothy Fosdick, Staff Director, Senate Subcommittee on National Security and International Operations, called on behalf of Senator Henry Jackson (D., Wash.), who was out at the Coast at the time. Senator Jackson was interested in the present status of the Mid-East conflict particularly in view of a BBC report that "Israel had won." Miss Fosdick explained that the only information she had been able to get from the Department of State was that contained in the U.S. wire service reports. I informed Miss Fosdick that there was nothing to confirm the BBC report and that while the Israelis had apparently advanced, particularly in the Gaza Strip, the entire situation was still fuzzy.

4. [] On the basis of information provided by [] I advised Ben Mandel, Senate Internal Security Subcommittee staff, that thus far we did not have access to the Ronning Report submitted to the Pacem'in Terris Conference but that should it become available we would forward a copy to him. This was in response to Mandel's request of Friday.
